About Sign in with Apple

When you see a Sign in with Apple button on a participating app or website, it means you can set up an account using your Apple ID. No need to use a social media account, fill out forms, or choose another new password.

Sign in with Apple is built from the ground up to respect your privacy and keep you in control of your personal information. It works natively on iOS, macOS, tvOS, and watchOS, and in any browser.

Use Sign in with Apple

To use Sign in with Apple, tap the Sign in with Apple button on a participating app or website, review your information, and sign in quickly and securely with Face ID, Touch ID, or your device passcode.

Learn how to use Sign in with Apple on your iPhone, iPad, iPod touch, or web browser.

You need to be signed in with your Apple ID in System Preferences > Apple ID on your Mac or Settings > [your name] on your iPhone, iPad, or iPod touch. You also need two-factor authentication turned on. Learn more.

Privacy and security

- At your first sign in, apps and websites can ask only for your name and email address to set up an account for you.
- You can use Hide My Email—Apple's private email relay service—to create and share a unique, random email address that forwards to your personal email. This lets you receive useful messages from the app without sharing your personal email address. Learn more about how Hide My Email works.
- Sign in with Apple won't track or profile you as you use your favorite apps and websites. Apple retains only the information that's needed to make sure you can sign in and manage your account.
- Security is built in to Sign in with Apple with two-factor authentication. If you use an Apple device, you can sign in and re-authenticate with Face ID or Touch ID anytime.

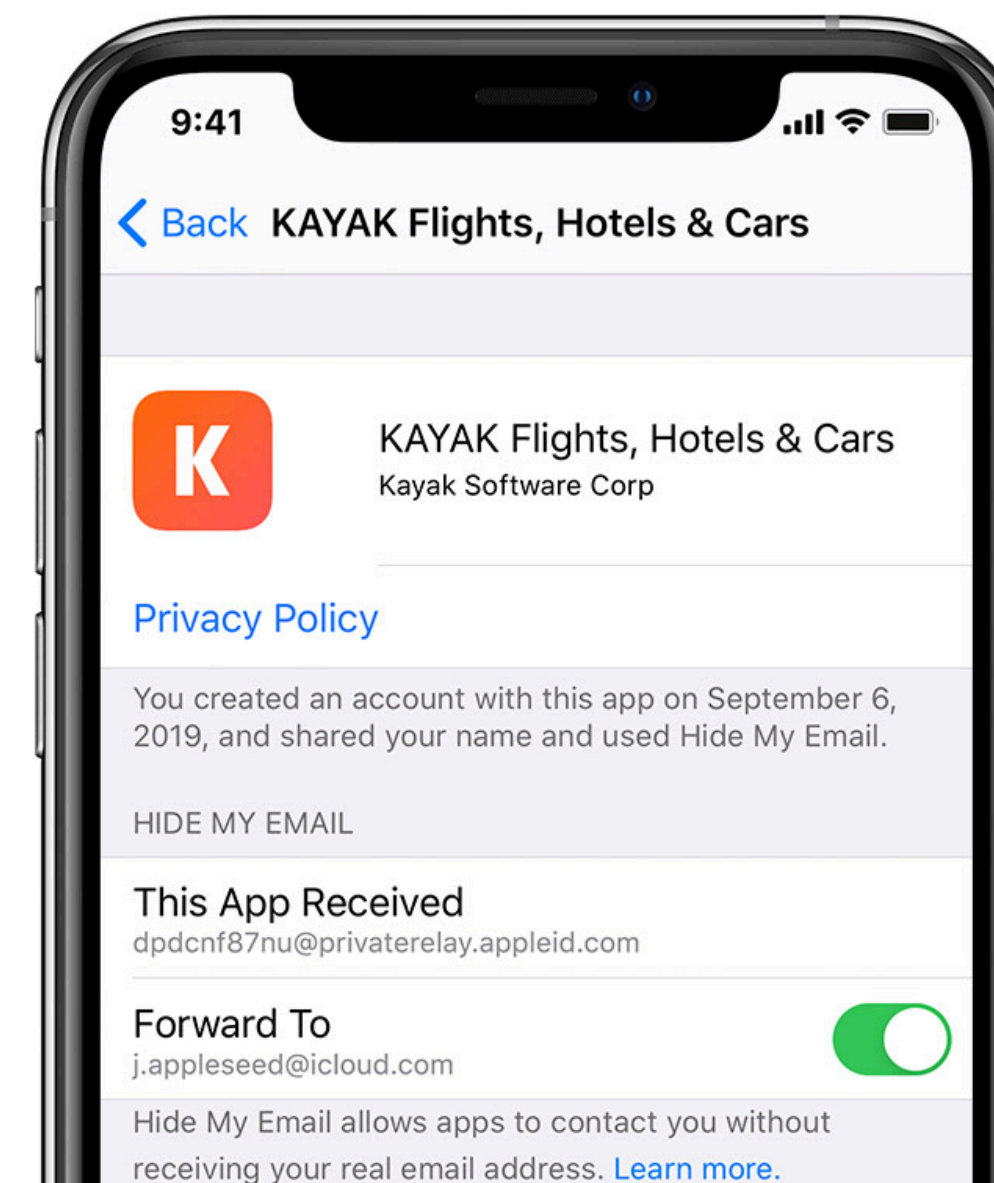

Manage your apps

In your Apple ID account settings, you see a list of apps that you use with Sign in with Apple. To view the information you originally shared with an app, select any app in the list. You can also view a link to the app's Privacy Policy or Terms & Conditions.

If you chose to hide your email address from an app and use our private email relay service, you can turn off email forwarding to your personal email address. You can also choose to stop using your Apple ID with an app or website.

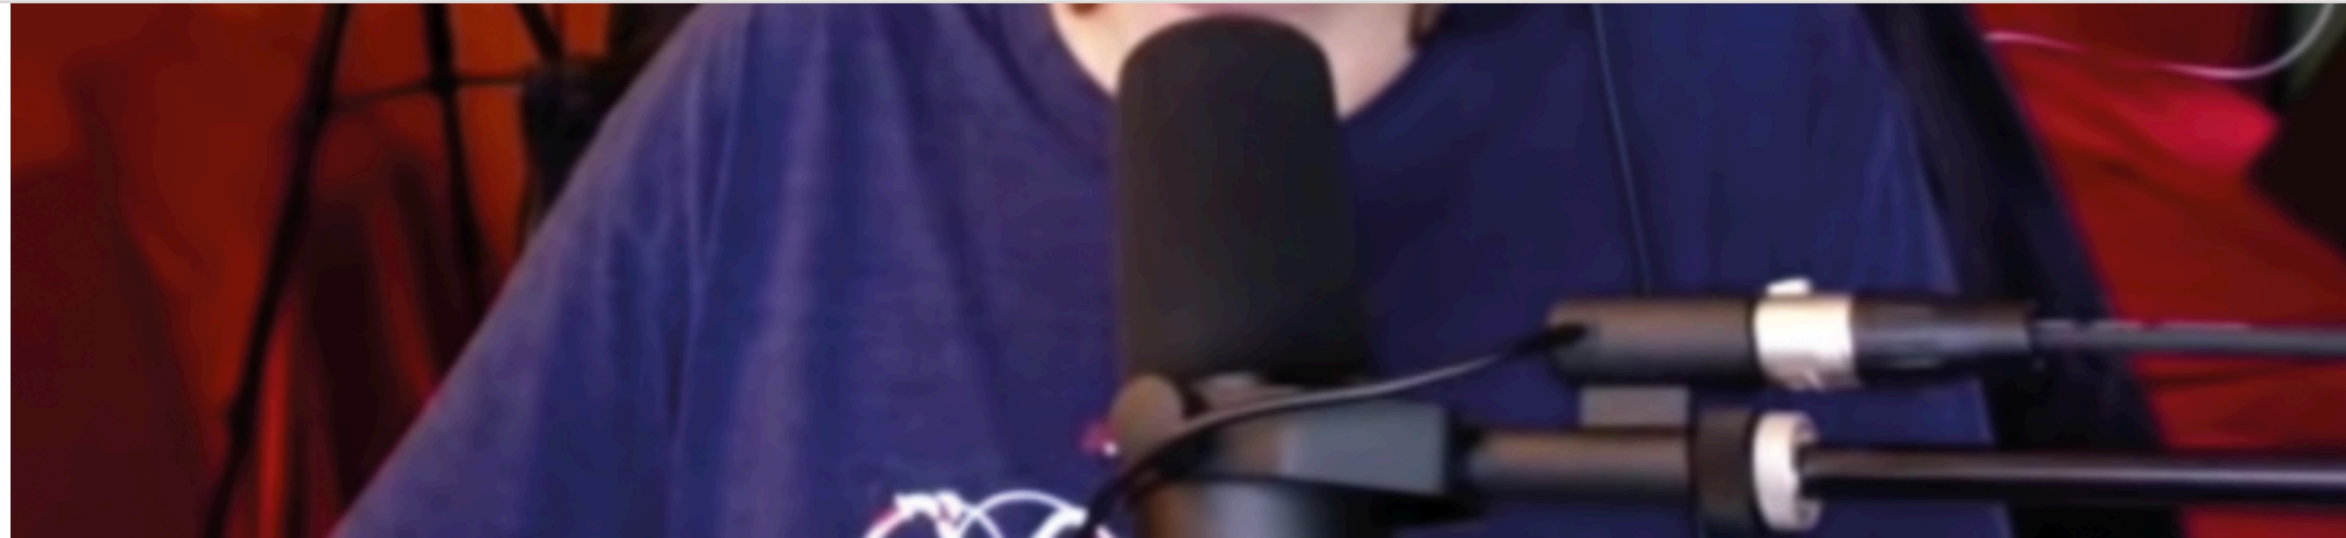

Turn Off Email Forwarding

To stop emails sent by a particular developer from reaching your personal inbox, turn off Forward To, then select Stop. Emails aren't forwarded to your personal inbox unless you turn email forwarding back on.

CULTURE

The Inaction of Capitol Police Was by Design

The spectacle of Wednesday’s tepid police response to riotous mobs shocked many. But the passivity is not some surprising anomaly—it is the status quo.

On MacBook. With a couple recent ones which I received by email, I right-clicked on the video and chose "save to downloads. Then I dropped them into message.

Couldn't get the drag thing going from downloads folder in Dock, so I opened Finder and dragged from there.
